Gather for truth telling, lament, prayer, and a communal commitment to act to name and address the sinful legacy of slavery in Cleveland and across the United States.

More than 400 years of racist policies, laws, and practices have deprived Black people fair access to participation in our shared cultural, political, social and economic life.
The sinful legacy of white supremacy and the enduring racial wealth gap must not deny Black people good health, educational and economic outcomes any longer.
Establishing a federal reparations commission in the United States is a central way that we name, understand, and address our past and build a new.
Now is the time.
